MR. WARD

To the Class of 1927

The best thing about Life is living. For you about to step forward one more pace into the greater Life ahead, all of us who have been so much concerned for you wish only that you may live as zestfully, as joyfully, as honestly as you have lived during your days with us. We hope for you that every day may see for you a good day's work, well done. We believe in Youth, and its essential goodness. We have faith that what you have done, and what we have tried to do for you, will bear its fruit in due season, in greater usefulness to your city and your nation, and in greater happiness to yourselves. May our faith be proven by your lives.

L. C. WARD.

MR. CRONINGER

We have only one purpose in all this school organization, in all this equipment, in all the discipline, in all the books, in all the lessons, in all the extra-curricular activities and that is to prepare you who study here for a better citizenship. If we have aided or encouraged you to be more thrifty, to have gained more wisdom, to be able to appreciate more your country, your spiritual inheritance and your duty to each other; we are glad for we then know we have accomplished that which we set out to do.

FRED H. CRONINGER

MISS LEWIS

The class of 1927 will soon record four happy years in its book of Memory. As you leave Central High School there are three requests I wish to make of you. One is that you remember that whatever you do may bring credit or discredit to the teachings you have received here, and that we are watching your success with interest.

The second is that we ask you to play the game of life squarely even though you lose.

The last is that you look for your pleasures in the little things that comprise the daily routine of living. There is no safer road to happiness.

ANNA B. LEWIS

MISS CHAPIN

Little need be said about this woman who has served us so faithfully during our four years at high school. She has not served only us, however, but she has helped many of our predecessors for a number of years.

Whenever we lose something we seek Miss Chapin, when we wish to telephone we seek Miss Chapin, when we lose our locker keys we seek Miss Chapin, and when we want our programs changed, again it's Miss Chapin we seek. One can hardly imagine a day at school without some aid from this helpful woman. We all hope sincerely that she will be at Central for years to come and that our younger brothers and sisters will appreciate the thoughtful attention she will give them.

Departments

Second Row—Welch, English; McCloud, Head Librarian; Reynard, English; McColgin, Librarian; Huffman, English; Ingham, English; Hurst, English; Winslow, English.

Bottom Row—Calvin, Librarian; Storr, English; Lane, Head of English; Wohlfield, English; Hawkins, English.

English Department

The study of English falls into two groups—literature and composition.

Literature gives one a desire to read good things and appreciate them. In our four year course, we become acquainted with the different styles of writing, such as fiction, biographies, essays, short stories, dramas, classics, and poetry. Outside reading plays an important part in this course, although most of the outside reading is offered as an outside-of-school activity.

Composition, or grammar, is studied for the purpose of learning to use language as a tool in the expression of our ideas. With the aid of this a pupil learns to speak correctly and fluently.

It is the aim of the department to have the pupil get an elementary appreciation of good books, and an accurate use of our language.

Library Department

The library is the rendezvous of the industrious Centralites. Any period of the day, it may be found crowded with pupils busy at collaterals and outside reading.

With more than 6,700 volumes, our library is fully capable of furnishing all information along lines that are related directly or indirectly to the courses prescribed in our school.

Top Row—Richardson, History; Strobel, German.

Second Row—DeLong, History; Nelson, French;Kimes, History; Smeltzley, History; Lucasse, Latin; McKinney, Latin; Potterf, History; Aumann, German; Mosher, History.

Bottom Row—Bierlein, Latin; Harrah, Head of Latin Department; Bassett, Spanish; DeLancey, French; Austin, Latin.

Miss Kolb, Head of History Department; Miss Gross, French and Spanish; (not in picture)

Language Department

For literary pupils who desire to enter the foreign fields in later years, and for those who wish a better and more thorough understanding of the origin of their own language, this department offers a complete fundamental course in Latin, French, Spanish, and German. With the aid of any of these languages, a pupil may add to his field of knowledge, since many valuable books are found written only in the original, and since by translation the purpose and real meaning of the book may be lost. Even the required course, which is two years, gives the pupil a passing knowledge of these foreign languages.

History Department

Our history course covers a period of three years, during which we enjoy a comprehensive study of "modern times and the living past." The study is pursued from the ancient times up to the economic and civic development of the present era. Our mental capacity in this line of work is broadened by doing outside reading pertaining to historical facts, and by making maps relating to various historical events.

This department strives to make us understand the importance of knowing the most outstanding events that took place in years gone by, and compare them with those of the present.

Top Row—Eyster, Stenography; Furst, Bookkeeping; Pring, Bookkeeping and Arithmetic; Immel, Bookkeeping.

Commercial Department

The commercial course prepares the pupils for their debut into the business world.

The entire four years are given to the study of business necessities. Commercial arithmetic and simple bookkeeping are taught the first year. The second year plunges one into a sea of trial balances, general journals, bills of lading, and all the other work of a true bookkeeper. Typing and shorthand are taught thoroughly the third year. The last year the typing and the shorthand are continued. Letters are transcribed at certain rates, typing teams are formed to compete against each other, and speed tests are taken for awards. The last part of the year is a laboratory course, and deals with comptometers, listing machines, mimeographs, and dictaphones.

It is the earnest endeavor of this department to make each boy and girl capable of doing the work expected with real joy, loyalty, and willingness.

Vocational Department

The theme of "future occupation" runs parallel to the work performed in the vocational department. The name "vocational" gives a clear foresight on the subjects dealt with here. The main subjects under observation are printing and electricity. The department strives to provide a suitable training for those occupations, or vocations, which interest the pupils most, and hopes to give them a more thorough knowledge of their trade so they can make their debut into the business world, feeling that they are masters of their trade. We feel that Central has a very complete vocational department. She has sent a great number of trade masters out of her shops.

Some of the finished products of the Printing Department are the Spotlight, all posters for plays, activities and athletic events.

The part time courses worked out with factories in the city have been a great step forward in the vocational courses.

Home Economics Department

Home economics is a subject which centers around the home. It includes the study of food and clothing viewed from the standpoint of hygiene, economics, and art.

In the study of food, the work arranges itself around such interests as varieties of foods and their sources, food values, meal planning, preparation of foods, and table service.

Selection of clothing, which includes a study of textiles from the consumers' point of view, art principles as applied to dress, and the construction and care of clothing, compose the main objectives in the clothing classes.

The goal toward which this department is striving, is to make each girl realize her responsibilities in the future, and to have her strive toward the ideals of initiative, honesty, and courtesy.

Top Row—Schwehn, Girls' Athletics; Mott, Girls' Athletics.
Bottom Row—Bills, Football and Baseball; Mendenhall, Basketball and Track.

Physical Education

Physical education is required only in the first year, but four years of it may be taken. Twice a week the pupils go into our gymnasium to exercise and to play games, such as basketball, indoor baseball, and volley ball. Many exercises are practised, and much time is spent on the posture. Tests are given in regard to posture, neatness of the "gym suit," and the ability to obey the commands of the instructor with alacrity and promptness. Sometimes the class is divided into teams, and these compete in the various games.

This department strives to keep the pupils' bodies fit, and teach them the value of physical education.

Top Row—Alexander, Biology; Hewett, Mathematics; Gardner, Head of Mathematics Department; Chambers, Physics; Sites, Mathematics; Tonkel, Co-operative; Aldred, Botany.

Bottom Row—Veatch, Physics; Christman, Mathematics; Suter, Physical Geography and Chemistry; Lancaster, Mathematics.

Mathematics Department

Many pupils imbibe this science of quantity and number with a keen zest. Although only one year of this science is required, the following year finds many continuing the study of equations, radicals and unknown quantities. The course prescribed consists of algebra, plane and solid geometry, advanced algebra, college algebra, and trigonometry.

Science Department

The science department includes botany, chemistry, physics, biology, and physical geography. This study of abstract principles is systematically carried on mostly through experiments which are performed in the respective laboratories.

This department strives to arouse a greater interest in the natural sciences, and to encourage the pupil to investigate, and form a greater degree of accuracy in the acquired knowledge.

Bottom Row—Teel, Music; Mathews, Music.

Art Department

In the art department, the artistic tendencies of the pupils come to the top. The many beautiful posters which decorate our halls are none other than the work of the pupils of this department. The art work for our year book and school papers is done by the members of this class. Not only sketches and paintings are made, but work in leather cutting, table designing, and other interesting art work is practised.

Music Department

The lovers of music find this course intensely interesting. It gives all pupils a chance to join either the orchestra, band, or glee club. At many of our assemblies we are entertained by the orchestra, or often the quartette gives numbers. Both the orchestra and the quartette have made public appearances and in this way have brought honor to Central, while many cantatas and operettas have been given in the past by this department. The lives and works of great composers are pursued in the music history classes, and in the harmony classes music theory and harmony are studied.

Top Row—Thompson, Woodworking; Mays, Manual Training; Shellschmidt, Woodworking; Knight, Forge.

Manual Training

Manual training introduces to the pupil the simple and practical methods of manufacturing. This training may be very useful later on, but besides its practical value, it inculcates the pupil with the spirit of "what is worth being done at all, is worth being done well." If the pupil retains this principle, he has gained an asset valuable to him in every walk of life. This does not only teach the pupil to do the daily tasks confronted, but makes him coordinate the hand with the brain. Various kinds of furniture, such as tables, lamps, and smoking stands, are built as perfectly as possible.

During the four years at Central the class has kept the reputation of being "peppy". It has always been more than willing to accept its share of responsibilities to boost Central; at the same time its members have participated in the usual number of pranks which have ended in "office calls."

As the class of '27 becomes a maker of history and passes into the ranks of the alumni, the members look back with fond memories over their "high school days." And they cherish more than ever their '27 Caldron, for which the class has adopted the motto, "A Bargain in Memories."

Our Mother Central

'T was in the year of 'twenty-three
On the steps of Central High
There stood six hundred little frosh,
So timid and so shy!
Good Mother Central saw them there
And threw her portals wide.
She lifted up a beckoning hand
And called them to her side.
Unhesitatingly they came,
Six hundred—one and all.
They followed Central up the steps
Into her lofty hall.
In Mother Central's home they stayed
Four long, but happy years.
They found encouragement for their hopes,
Sympathy for their fears.
No, Central failed not in her trust.
She led them safely 'long,
And with a firm but gentle voice
She taught them right from wrong.
And now she sends them forth from her
Into a great, wide world.
They sally out, happy and proud,
With banners gay unfurled.
And Central stands back in the gloom,
And watches them go by;
And, seeing their great confidence,
She breathes a wistful sigh.
For she has seen others march forth;
Has heard their tramping feet.
She knows the hardships they must share,
The crises they must meet.
Now, Seniors who are setting out,
Prove to her this one thing;
That all her efforts and her toils
Their deserved reward will bring.
Though you may not win glory; no,
Nor even lasting fame,
At least you can, each one of you,
Bring honor to her name.
She's taught you how to fight the "Fight;"
She's showed you what to do;
She's given you a chance to win;
The rest is up to you!

Athletic Board

Control of athletics at Central is in the hands of the following group of people: Fred H. Croninger, principal; Charles Dilts, faculty manager of athletics; Mark Bills and Murray Mendenhall, coaches; the Misses Hilda Schwehn and Elsie Mott, directors of physical education for girls; and Miss Hazel Hawkins, advisor of the Booster Club.

The board of control determines the athletic policies of the school, makes the awards of letters and sweaters at the close of the season for each sport, and has charge of any special honors or trophies, such as the blankets, which are to be presented for outstanding prowess displayed in sports.

One of the many duties of Mr. Croninger, as principal, is to certify all students who take part in athletic contests. He also has charge of sectional and regional basketball tournaments as well as sectional track meets. During the past ten years he has missed but few games, either at home or out-of-town.

Mr. Dilts, a new man as faculty manager this year, has handled the affairs of this position with the same capable and thorough effectiveness that he does his chemistry classes. Ticket sales, scheduling games, and handling financial matters, all come within the province of his work. No bit of work is too trifling for his consideration, if the welfare of the teams is concerned.

Miss Hawkins has general charge of all the things that the Booster Club does to advance athletics. The work of her organization includes: decorating the gym or field, sales at the games, and social affairs for the letter men.

We are all agreed that each member of the athletic board of control has efficiently managed the particular part of the athletic work that has come within his province.

COACH MARK BILLS

Football and Baseball

Did you ever notice that sturdily built, dark-eyed fellow who goes smilingly about at Central? Well, that's Coach Bills. Perhaps the best way to judge a person is to get the opinion of those who know him and realize his ability to handle difficult situations that arise. Those Central students who have worked with Mark in football and baseball are unanimous in declaring him especially competent for leadership in sports. It takes a real leader of men to go through such a season as Central experienced in football last year and still keep his players keyed up to the fighting pitch. Mark is a leader—a decisive one, who knows the game, who realizes its possibilities, and who develops his players accordingly.

Last spring's baseball season was a fitting climax to a successful athletic year, for Central lost but one game out of fourteen. Much of this success must be attributed to the mentor who coached the team so ably. He is not only known for his ability as an athlete and a coach, but also for the fine baritone voice which he possesses.

ROBERT RAMSEY

Football Captain

Bob's motto, as he went about the gridiron, the leader of the team, seemed to be "Say it with action." Always a dependable player and possessing the confidence of his team-mates at all times, he made the kind of captain of which Central can long be proud. As a player in three sports, the captaincy of football in his senior year was a fitting tribute to his athletic prowess.

Alumni 0—Central 0

September 18

With the weatherman providing a day better suited for a swimming match than a gridiron contest, the former wearers of the Blue and White fought the varsity to a scoreless tie. The Alumni were represented by a galaxy of former Tiger stars. In the last quarter the Tigers began a brilliant drive which carried the ball within a few feet of the goal, only to be stopped by the stonewall defense of the Alumni.

LaPorte 6—Central 3
September 25

For the second game of the season Coach Bills travelled with his proteges to LaPorte, where a hard and closely contested game was lost to the Slicers. Repeating its forward passing attack of the year before, LaPorte again outnosed Central by a narrow margin. During the second half both teams settled down to real work, and the ball see-sawed back and forth with both squads fighting desperately to clinch the game. At one time the Tigers were within two yards of the coveted goal, but an incomplete pass behind the line gave the enemy the ball. The Tigers seemed to be a bit off form and they were unable to stem the tide of their strong opponents at critical times in the game.

Bluffton 0—Central 12
October 1

A re-arranged lineup met Bluffton in the mud of the stadium and emerged therefrom with two touchdowns as the winner's share of the spoils. The Wells County squad opened up an aerial attack to cross the expanse of mud. This was short-lived, for Marshall snagged a pass and raced forty-five yards for Central's first touchdown of the season. In the last quarter Central succeeded in taking the ball down the field, and, by the forward pass route, chalked up six more points. A fair crowd witnessed this game in spite of the fact that Father Pluvius was threatening to release a deluge at any minute.

VINCENSKI

Columbia City 7—Central 14
October 9

With the score tied at seven-all during the greater part of the game, Central in the last quarter smashed through her opponent's line for another touchdown and victory. Central employed the aerial method to get the ball down the field, and both scores came as a result of passes across the goal line. Cummins of Columbia City kept the Tigers guessing as he intermingled passes and runs. Jasper and Billingsley proved to be the scoring machine for Central. A large and enthusiastic crowd, including numerous members of local clubs who had been invited by the Booster Club, attended the game.

Decatur 12—Central 6
October 16

Playing a mediocre brand of football, the Blue and White tasted defeat for the second time of the year. In the first quarter Bash dropped upon a blocked punt back of Decatur's goal line for Central's lone score. In the third quarter the Yellow Jackets smashed the Blue and White line for a touchdown after a number of plunges and one successful pass. Toward the very end of the game an intercepted pass gave the Yellow Jackets a six point victory.

JAMES BRITTIN
Student Manager of Athletics

"Jimmy" was that efficient student manager of athletics, who always crept up and down the Central stairs with such "gentle" footsteps. Always on hand at every game and practice session, he was the man who looked after the equipment of all kinds and saw to it that none was lost. Nothing was too hard or trifling for him to do if it spelled the welfare of the team. No one will ever forget how he chased foul balls that went over the fence, how efficiently he carried water to perspiring gridiron players, and how he used to give the hardwood boys rub-downs. Endowed with a keen sense of humor and a pleasing personality, he has enlivened many a trip with his own peculiar brand of humor. As managers go, "Jimmy" has been by far the most faithful that Central has known in recent years. To be a follower and, in a sense, a lackey, for those who have the honor of playing the game, and to do this in such a way that he has won the commendation of students, players, and coaches, is what has been accomplished by this loyal follower of the Blue and White.

BASKETBALL

COACH MURRAY MENDENHALL

Basketball and Track

"Mendy" is that man who goes quietly about at Central and who directs the school's efforts in the hardwood and cinder contests. Like Bills he is coaching for his third year at Central and has had phenomenal success with teams in both sports for which he is primarily responsible. He is an athlete who not only knows the game, but understands thoroughly how to impart this knowledge to aspiring novices. Since "Mendy" has had the Blue and White basketball team under his tutelage, this sport has been given a new impetus in our school.

For three consecutive years he has developed a track team that has captured the honors in the sectional track meet. This certainly proves that "he knows his stuff" in this branch of sports.

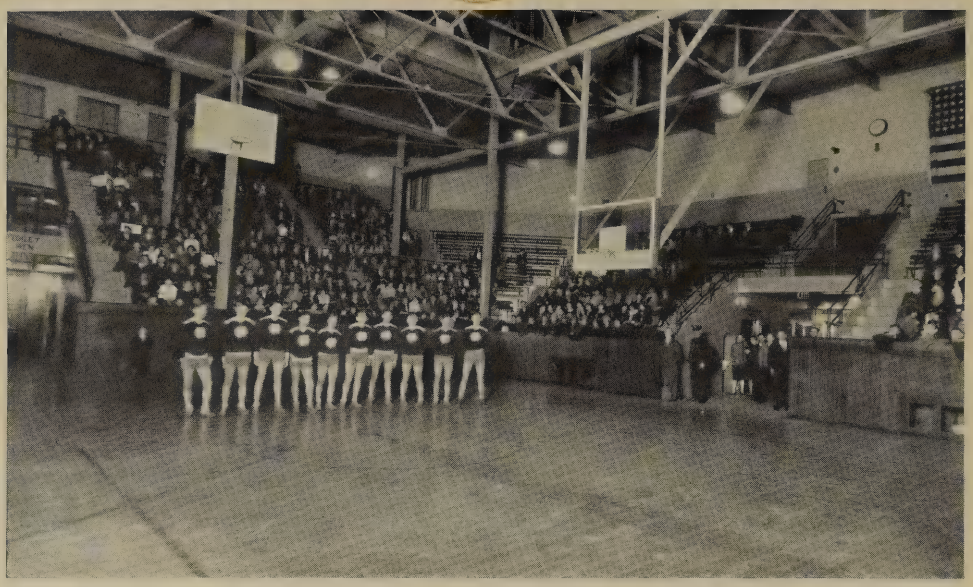
The reputation of this man as a player and coach was not unknown to us before his arrival here three years ago. That his selection as a coach has been no mistake has been more than ably demonstrated by the results achieved during this time.

Here's to you, "Mendy."

PAUL JASPER

Captain of Basketball

"Mutt" is that lengthy wearer of the coveted "C," who has majored in sports and popularity, and has graduated with the King trophy. Four years in football, three in baseball, and three in basketball is the record over which this versatile athlete can look back as the years come and go. He will leave a place that will be hard to fill by some future player. Whole teams made up of such players would be a joy to the hearts of coaches. In football his playing at end was as outstanding as that of any Central player in recent years. In baseball he held down the first sack in an admirable manner, for he was able to grab any fly from high in the air and could field a great deal of territory. In basketball he has outjumped and out-maneuvered many a worthy opponent. "Mutt" has been a very great favorite among Central students during his entire four years with us, and for this reason everyone was especially pleased when he was chosen to pilot the net cagers during his senior year.



BROCKALL

The Season Opens

Central's basketball prospects were fairly good when the season opened. Jasper and Ramsey were the only two veterans left of last year's squad, but we also had last season's reserves. Coach Mendenhall soon had a squad of ten men that were full of the fighting spirit of Central. The final games of the season proved how well the Blue and White could perform.

Central's basketball season opened with a journey to Marion, where the state champs were held to a 37-29 victory. In this early season game the Tigers showed up well, despite the Giant's victory.

On the following night, Rochester breezed into the Tiger camp and the Zebras returned to their own lair with a game won by a margin of 31-26.

WEBER

A trip made to Muncie by the Centralites proved disastrous, for the Bearcats triumphed over us to the tune of 41-22.

In giving our old enemy, Decatur, its first defeat of the season, Central displayed fine team work, and a hard fought game resulted in a score of 27-18.

The Blue-Devils of Gary, otherwise known as Froebel, were met on their own floor where they succeeded in trouncing the Tiger quintet by a 38-13 count.

The Maroons of Mishawaka were surprised by the Tiger attack and tasted their first defeat of the season at the short end of a 35-27 decision.

JASPER

HEIT

The Lime City lads came here and returned to Huntington with a score that was not to their liking, namely: 28-17.

Angola clashed with the Blue and White netters in what proved to be a game of thrills. After an overtime period the Laketown boys returned with Central's scalp and a 29-28 victory.

A scrappy group of cagers met Wabash here and sent them home with drooping spirits, caused by a 39-25 defeat.

A trip to Hartford City was responsible for the loss of another game to the high school of that place. The final score was 32-24.

The only out-of-state team played this season was the much heralded Libbey High School team of Toledo. The Buckeye team failed to produce a brand of basketball equal to ours and lost the game to us 24-14.

JOHNSON

In a game at Bluffton the Blue and White netters bowed to the Bluffton Tigers, 48-32.

A second game with Hartford City was played here. In this contest the Tigers tasted the sweets of victory and revenge for a former game of the season. The game ended 23-19.

Auburn's quintet was completely outclassed by the Tiger machine which smothered them beneath a score of 51-27.

Meeting the crack Kendallville five on their own floor, Central's team exhibited such a fine style of basketball that this much touted team was overcome by a 39-27 margin.

In a contest at Newcastle, where Mendy formerly coached, the Trojans nosed out a win by the close count of 29-28.

From a hard fought game at Warsaw the Blue cagers returned with another scalp tucked under their belt. This meant a 40-30 defeat for Warsaw.

An easy victory of 54-17 was chalked up to the credit of Mendy's cagers at the expense of Warren.

Monticello's mediocre playing caused them to fall before the Tiger attack and to carry home the short end of a 38-21 score.

In the greatest game of the season the Emerson team of Gary clashed with our Tigers. As the game was in doubt till the very end, it was a thriller throughout. In spite of heroic Tiger efforts the Lake County boys triumphed 32-31.

Sectional Tournament

The Tigers were not forced to use their claws in romping through the sectional tournament. Lafayette Center and Maumee Township were easily disposed of with one-sided scores. New Haven won the right to meet Central in the finals. Game to the last, their plucky players fought to the very end of the contest, but were no match for the Blue and White.

Regional Tournament

By the route of decisive victories Central's netters again earned the right to compete in the state contest. In the first game Decatur displayed a fine brand of basketball and, for the first few minutes of play, held their own with the Blue cagers. This gruelling game ended 21-12 in favor of the Tigers. The plucky Rock Creek team was almost a match for Columbia City, which met Central in the final game. In the deciding game the Tigers found themselves and impressively trounced the Whitley County team 34-17.

The State Tournament

"On to the State" was Central's slogan throughout the local tournaments. A week after the Regional the Tigers found themselves once again at the "ole' cow barns." Central's showing at the State was a very fine one, in spite of the fact that they lost out in the second tilt. In defeating Washington the Blue displayed real basketball skill. Central entered the last battle with high hopes, but the count that Bedford rolled up in the first half proved to be too great a lead to overcome, and Mendy's cagers went down to a 30-24 count.

This closed one of the most successful basketball seasons the school has had. Thanks to the fine playing of the hardwood boys, to Mendenhall and Bills for superior coaching, and to Dr. King, Central's trainer, for watchful care.

Yell Leaders

John Habecker

"Johnnie" has seen two years of service in the trying position of yell leader for the Tiger fans. During this time he has proved himself dependable and original. Does every one want to yell his head off for him? We'll say he does. Though Johnnie is only a Junior, he is the idol of the Freshmen. Thanks to you, John, for the loyal service you have given Central.

Carl Wilkins

"Doc," a newcomer in the ranks of cheer leaders, has proved that he has the "stuff" for this sort of work. He puts his heart and soul, not to mention his "feeble" voice, into this difficult work and has already made a name for himself among the galaxy of student leaders who have starred in this particularly difficult brand of boosting for the Blue and White.

DR. E. A. KING

DR. E. A. KING

When the list of the loyal boosters for Central athletics will be published (not yet gone to press) no doubt Dr. A. E. King's name will head the list. Although Dr. King has been in Fort Wayne only two years, he has become most popular with all the Centralites and patrons as well as to Fort Wayne citizens in general. A "Who 's Who" writeup would say that he is the donor of the King cup award, which is to be given each year to the basketball player whose mental attitude and playing ability has been the most outstanding during the season. But we want to say that he is the loyal physician "on the bench" at every game, whether the game is in the city, out-of-town, or at state. Not only at games has Dr. King given his services, but his office hours for Central athletics have been "All Hours."

Captain "Mutt" Jasper received the King award this year.

Baseball Resume 1926

Central's baseball team for the 1926 season looked like a winner from the very start. On April 16, Baker and Scott, Central's star hurlers, held the Yellow Jackets to a lone tally while their teammates crossed the plate eighteen times. A week later Garrett came here for the first home game. Scott blasted their hopes 4-0. On April 24 the Tigers met the Huntington Vikings and returned with a 12-6 victory. Goshen came here as our next victim and returned with a 4-2 score. A return game with the Decatur Yellow Jackets was played here May 1, and they were conquered to the tune of 13-2. The next week Garrett almost put a black mark on Central's clean slate, but the Tigers found themselves and won 6-5. On the following day Bluffton was humbled 8-1. The diamond men again defeated Huntington 13-2. This was Central's eighth consecutive victory, but the fatal game with Muncie a week later ruined our chances of going through the season undefeated. The Bearcats beat our Tigers by a 5-3 score.

Tennis

Tennis in Central gives promise of becoming a major sport in the future. Coached by Les Ortlieb and Hilda Schwehn, backed by the Booster Club, and with an exceptionally good card, the court sport has become very popular with the Centralites this year.

Approximately twenty-five people are on the two tennis squads; the girls' team and the boys' team. The girls had a good team last year but are much better this year. Regular practice each evening and usually a meet on Friday or Saturday has featured this year's program.

On the boys' team are: Dick Heine, Jack Williams, Jack Kitch, and Reece Gardner. The girls are represented by: Florence Koegel, Margaret Phipps, Betty Van Arnam, and Audra Dalton. Robert Porter has been acting as student manager and has scheduled most of the games and provided everything else necessary.

The first meet was with Marion, there, on April 30, and resulted in a tie. On May 7, at the country club, Portland was met, and the following week a hotly contested return meet with Marion was scheduled at the club courts. The second road trip of the season was taken when the two teams journeyed to Goshen May 21. The Tigers, and The Bearcats of Muncie provided a thrilling meet May 27 and the following day Goshen came to Fort Wayne for a return match. On June 6, the Tiger tennis teams had probably their hardest fought meet of the year when they went to Culver Military Academy to engage with the stellar Culver team. Other games were played during this time but were not placed on the official schedule.

June 2, 3, 4, marked the Central high school tournament which were played off at the country club courts.

Central is very much indebted to Les Ortlieb, city champion, for his willingness to coach the Central aggregation. He has made a team which any school would be proud to own, and has done it entirely through his love of the sport and love for Central people. Miss Schwehn has also accomplished a piece of work in putting out a girls' team of which she may well be proud.

Girls Sports

MISS SCHWEHN

MISS SCHWEHN

Miss Schwehn has been with us for four years and has guided the destinies of the '27 class for the same length of time.

Miss Schwehn has produced fine basketball, baseball, tennis, and volley-ball teams. She has run off many tournaments and has conducted gym classes in fine style.

After graduation from Central—then known as the Fort Wayne High School—she attended Battle Creek Physical Education School, and after completing her course there she attended Olivet College, from which she graduated in June, 1922. She came to Central in the fall of that same year and has been with us ever since. Her faithful devotion to Central had followed her all through college and she was right there to give back to her Alma Mater all she had gained.

MISS MOTT

Miss Mott whose home is at Minneapolis, Minnesota, was graduated from the University of Minnesota where she received her B.S. degree. During her high school and college career she played basketball. Perhaps that is why she is such a splendid coach.

Under her able coaching the girls have progressed rapidly. They have learned many new things which have made them better players and finer sports. Miss Mott also teaches gymnasium.

We quote Miss Mott's first impression of Central: "The first day of school last fall left a very favorable impression upon me. The orderliness in the halls, and the courtesy of the students were the first things that I noticed. As time wore on I realized that this was not only the first impression, but an enduring one."

MISS MOTT

Informal Gym

In addition to the other athletics, there is the gym class and when we investigate we find some very interesting things going on there.

In the gym, various games, exercises, and contests are enjoyed by the girls. The gym classes meet twice a week and are given over to many forms of exercise. Some days the girls are taught difficult exercises and stunts, which require skill to accomplish. Dancing is another thing the girls enjoy. They not only do simple folk dances, but also clogging, jigging, and they learn other difficult steps.

In the fall and winter basketball and volley-ball are played in the gym periods. In the spring and summer baseball is played too. The girls go outside on Central's campus and have real, live, exciting games.

Jumping, relays, and other games, furnish fun and plenty of exercise for the girls at other times. In Miss Mott's gym classes the girls take exercises to music. They also march to music and they have had good times marching in the regular military manner. The girls who fail to take gym or who drop it after their freshman year surely lose loads of good times and healthful exercise.

Third Row: CRAWFORD; SHREVE; SALZER; REEVES; MCNELLEY.
Second Row: WINTER; MICHAELS; DELANCEY; AYRES; MASTERSON.
Bottom Row: GUNTLE; PHIPPS; PRATT; SCOLES; TONKEL.

Girls' Basketball

Every year a class tournament is played for the honor of having the winning class numeral on the Marcella Koeber cup. This year the class of 1927 won the tournament. The 1927 class now has its numerals on the cup twice.

In 1926 when the cup was first awarded the 1927 class won the championship and has repeated its victory again.

The tournament was as follows:

Date	Classes	Score	Winner
February 25	Sophomores and Freshmen	25-30	Sophomores
March 2	Freshmen and Juniors	27-20	Freshmen
March 2	Seniors and Sophomores	37-18	Seniors
March 4	Freshmen—Seniors	56-16	Seniors
March 4	Sophomores—Juniors	20- 8	Sophomores
March 9	Juniors—Seniors	48-16	Seniors
March 11	Freshmen—Sophomores	19-17	Freshmen
March 16	Seniors—Sophomores	39-19	Seniors
March 16	Juniors—Freshmen	15- 5	Freshmen
March 22	Seniors—Juniors	57- 1	Seniors
March 23	Freshmen—Seniors	25-18	Seniors

The captains deserve much credit for their splendid management and the teams deserve as much credit for their cooperation and creditable playing. The captains for the teams are: Freshmen, Catherine Zwick; Sophomore, Louise Shreve; Junior, Jane Bradtmiller; Senior, Margaret Phipps.

Top Row: Reeves; McNelly; Faux; Wyrick.

Volley Ball

Volley-ball was one of the outstanding sports of the fall season this year. A regular tournament was played with, teams composed of people who had shown the most ability in the practice sessions.

There were three teams: The Blue, Green, and Brown. The following girls were on the respective teams:

Blue	Green	Brown
Alma Crawford, Captain	Velma Harnishfeger, Captain	Maxine Salzer
Venus Faux	Dorothy Tonkel	Thelma Scoles
Alta McNelly	Dorothy Michaels	Dorothea Seibert
LaVerne Hibler	Bernice Reeves	Ruth Schwabe
Jane Bradtmiller	Vera Wyrick	Lorena Fann
Ruth Doenges	Mary Masterson	Brandt
Katherine Zwick	Mary Pratt	Ganther

These girls came out for every practice and played hard and deserved their places on the team.

The tournament was won by the Blue team. After the tournament, an all-star team was chosen, which was composed of the following members.

Vera Wyrick	Mary Pratt	Dorothy Tonkel
Thelma Scoles	Venus Faux	Bernice Reeves
	Alta McNelly

This team played the teachers and were victorious every game they played. These were the last games on the schedule, and it was thought probable that a game with the faculty men could be scheduled, but this was never done.

Volley-ball never has been really one of Central's sports, but Miss Schwehn and Miss Mott want to make it one of the annual sports of Central, ranking with baseball and tennis.

INDOOR BASEBALL

Baseball

Hear the call, "Play ball! Play ball!" Doesn't your hand just itch to hold a bat and swat the ball skimming over across the left fielder's head? The varsity team of last year never had a chance to prove its ability so we now give it recognition for the fine sportsmanship it showed.

The girls were chosen for their excellent playing and co-operation with each other and the coaches. They were chosen from the inter-class games, those showing the best playing were given a place on the all-star team, as the varsity was called.

Ignota Winter, our all-round athlete and fielder, and Zelda Rosenthal, our second baseman, were graduated in February.

Among those who will be graduated in June are:

Margaret Phipps, an all-round athlete and our star pitcher; Mary Pratt, basketball star and first baseman; Thelma Scoles, basketball guard and catcher for "Marg"; Dorothy Michaels, basketball and baseball player; Hope Harnish, all-round athlete and star fielder; and Martha Renier, all-around athlete.

Hi-Y Club

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character" is the purpose of the Hi-Y, a club sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. for junior and senior boys.

The club meetings, which are in the form of banquets, are held every Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. During the past year many clever programs were arranged. At the opening meeting of the new semester in February the topic for discussion was "What I Would Do if Principal." A special program on "He Knew Lincoln" was given February 10, and another on "Ben Hur," February 17. "The Bible and Evolution" formed the basis of one discussion, and "What Our Girl Friends Expect of Us," "My Ideal Teacher," "What Is a Good Citizen?", and "What College and Why?" were a few of the other interesting topics.

The Hi-Y'ers have also had several social events. On March 17 a St. Patrick's Party was given in the South Side Cafeteria. In April they joined with the members of the Friendship and So-Si-Y Clubs and gave a peppy April Fool Party at the Y. M. C. A. The Mother and Son Banquet, one of their annual affairs, was held on May 12.

Jr-Hi-Y

The Junior Hi-Y Club was organized at the Y. M. C. A. last fall at the opening of the school term, by a few high school fellows who had enjoyed the privileges of Christian fellowship during the past semesters. This group of pupils was anxious to continue this fellowship and was eager to organize the club with other freshmen and sophomore boys.

Although the club began with relatively few members, it has steadily grown in numbers and in interest throughout the year. The club members have tried to create and maintain, in their own lives and in the lives of others, higher standards of Christian character. To accomplish this aim, discussion groups have been organized and conducted throughout the year. Special emphasis was placed on a regular Bible study program during the period leading up to the Easter season.

Some of the events to be long remembered by the members of the club are: the Father and Son Banquet, a Christmas party for more than thirty less fortunate boys of the city, a lecture by Winfred Scott Hall on "Chivalry," and many trips through some of the more common industries of the city.

Sorosis Literary Society

To promote the reading and appreciation of good literature is, as the name implies, the purpose of the Sorosis Literary Society. The membership of the club is placed upon a scholarship basis, and only girls 10A or over, who have an average of B are permitted to join.

During the first part of the year the programs consisted of the study of the works of the modern poets. These included Carl Sanburg, Joyce Kilmer, and others. The latter part of the year was spent with the works of modern authors: such as Margaret Widdemer, Temple Bailey, and Jeffrey Farnol.

Sorosis is well-known for its patriotic programs. On Armistice Day, George Washington's birthday, and Memorial Day, the club presented before the student body very impressive programs. On each occasion a member of the club was in charge, and an appropriate talk was given by some well-known person.

"To be intensely interesting" is the motto of Sorosis, and the girls, with the help of their very competent advisor, Miss Welch, are doing their best to live up to it. Although Sorosis was late in getting started this year, it has made great headway, and its outlook for the future is extremely bright.

Brush and Pencil Club

The Brush and Pencil Club was organized two years ago by the Art Department with the purpose of "creating a finer appreciation and broader knowledge of Art, which will result in increased enjoyment in the truth and beauty of living." Such a club as this had been a needed institution in Central, and its organization, encouraged by Miss Newman and others, has brought a happy culmination to the dreams of art-lovers of the school.

The club has proved itself to be a worthy daughter of Central in many ways. One of its greatest projects was the making of ten large light-shades, which are to be used in decorating the gymnasium for dances and parties. The shades are orange and yellow with conventional designs of birds and flowers carried out in black. The frames are a shield shape, and are forty inches high. The members have also made and sold dainty white handkerchiefs on which they had painted blue tiger heads.

The club is by no means one of all work and no play. Interesting meetings are held on the second Monday in each month and clever programs are presented. During the two years of its existence, the Brush and Pencil Club has made remarkable headway, and its members are looking with eagerness to the future, anxious to show the school what an indispensable organization it is.

Mathematics Club

With the purpose of bringing to those interested in mathematics a greater vision of the subject, and of giving an opportunity for a closer friendship between the teachers and students of the department, the Math Club was organized in 1913. During the past year between fifty and sixty members realized the aim of the club under the leadership of the presidents, Arthur Gouty and Maurice Glock. The club has always held a prominent place in the activities of Central. The membership includes those students who have work in mathematics beyond 10B geometry.

The programs of the year have been both educational and entertaining. One evening Mr. Dilts gave an interesting and instructive talk on "Chemistry and Mathematics." At another meeting James Anglin, an alumnus and former president of the club, explained the "College Board Entrance Examinations." Other subjects discussed by members of the faculty were: "History of Mathematics;" "Slide Rule;" and "Magic Squares."

The club's reputation for its social times has been well maintained. Contests of various types were the favorite amusement of the meetings. The entertainment was most fittingly followed by the "always welcome" refreshments. One of the outstanding "good times" is the annual picnic. The Club owes its success largely to the guidance and support of its loyal faculty advisors.

Student Players' Club

To create an interest in dramatics and to develop the talent of those interested is the very high purpose of the Student Players' Club. Its advisor is Miss Marjorie Suter, Central's capable director of dramatics. To be a member of this organization one must take part in a play or assist in the production of one and must have passing grades in all subjects. In this way, the membership is restricted to those students who are really interested in dramatics and who are willing to work for its advancement.

The members are really rather extraordinary individuals, and we never know in what forms to expect them next. We have seen them as haggard old men; as dainty, graceful dancers; as dirty, uneducated products of the slums; sophisticated children of wealth; and what is more, they not only pretend their parts, but they actually live them! They learn to forget their own personalities and to throw themselves entirely into the characters they are portraying.

The plays given this year by the organization were as follows: "The Social Matinee;" "If Men Played Cards as Women Do;" "Cindy;" and "The Maker of Dreams." These plays were all enthusiastically received by the student body.

Boosters' Club

The Boosters' Club is one of the most alive clubs in the school, for it has as its purpose the backing of everything that is sponsored by Central. Its membership is made up of one student representative from each class and club in school, and to Miss Hazel Hawkins goes the honor, as well as the responsibility of being its faculty advisor.

Early in the fall the organization joined with Friendship Club in presenting shrubbery to the school. It gave song-books which were to be used at pep sessions. It united with the Senior class in presenting the Black and White Vod-vil. In a social way also, the Boosters have done much. They gave the Mixer, the Letter-Men's Party, the Tiger Hop, and a party for the South Side Booster Club.

Indeed, it seems that the Boosters have thoroughly learned the art of usefulness and have made good use of their knowledge. Because of its far-reaching influence and its never-failing support, we can truthfully say that the Boosters' Club holds a position in the curricular activities of Central which never could be filled by any other organization.

Spocal Club

The Spocal Club is Central's publication club. Although it is a new organization in the school, its purpose is the same as that of the Press Club, which came into existence during the year 1925. All members of the major staffs of the Spotlight and Caldron are eligible for membership. The club endeavors to further interest in the school publications and to accomplish greater things for Central in the way of press.

At the first meeting of the year, Robert Portor was elected president. The initial social event was in the form of a peppy party, given in the cafeteria. The Spocal members also made clever note-books from the covers of left-over 1925 Caldrons and sold them to the students.

For the second term, Paul Aumann was made president. After the regional tournament the club gave a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. A trio furnished music for the affair, and clever after-dinner talks were given by the editors and advisors of the publications.

Friendship Club

Girls of the Friendship Club with the help of their advisors have been trying conscientiously to fulfill the purpose of their organization which is three-fold:

1. To create a friendly spirit among the High School girls.
2. To develop habits of helpfulness.
3. To promote growth in Christian character.

Activities through the year have shown their success in working towards this goal. At the first of the year shrubbery was presented to the school for beautifying Central's lawn. In connection with this gift, Friendship Club entertained the student-body with a lovely playlet, written by Mrs. Lane.

In living up to the standard suggested by the name "Friendship," the girls of the club have played the "good Samaritan" many times during the year. At Thanksgiving, baskets were sent to several poor families. The girls furnished the food and decorated the baskets. The Club also furnished about thirty-two garments for the Needlework Guild.

Friendship Club brought cheer to the children of the Orphan's Home through Valentine Greetings and again to the patients at the Irene Byron Sanitarium when a musical program was given there by the club members.

Friendship Club

Before the Girl Reserve movement was started in the Y. W. C. A., Miss Harrah feeling the need of bringing something inspirational and spiritual into the high school girls life, organized the Friendship Club in 1916.

Has Friendship Club fulfilled its purpose and thus justified its existence? Perhaps we may judge from the lives of some of the girls who have been its leaders.

Elsie Kinerk, '17, the first president of the club is secretary to the president of the Real Silk Hosiery Company of Indianapolis.

Marie Umbach Campbell, '19, was for several years counsellor of the Younger Business Girls' Club in our own Y. W. C. A.

Dorothy Simpson, '20, is an instructor of physical education in the University of Omaha; while Katherine Jackson, '20, is using the facilities of the local Y. W. C. A. to teach the girls of the city how to keep their bodies fit for work and service.

Helen Wooding, '21, has been president of the college Y. W. C. A. in the University of Chicago and will receive her master's degree from that institution in June. Esther Moll, '21, is Personnel Director of the Indianapolis Employment Bureau.

Arletta Schmuck, '22, was for two years secretary of the grade school Girl Reserves and was succeeded this year by Kathryn Wilson, also of the class of '22. Kathryn, too, had the honor of being president of her college Y. W. C. A. at the University of Michigan.

Mary Alice Kendricks, '23, is now in Ohio Wesleyan College and has been elected to the Writers' Club, an honor coveted by all, and is planning to enter the field of Social Service after graduation.

U. P. D.

The U. P. D., the Y. W. C. A. club for underclassmen, started the year with a peppy party given by the sophomores for the freshmen girls.

This year the club tried a new system of presenting programs. The membership was divided into five interest groups—dramatic discussion, recreation, music, and art. Each group took charge of one meeting and carried out the program in accordance with its special subject. Since each girl could choose the group she wished to join, she naturally chose the one she liked best and, consequently, the one for which she was most fitted. As a result of this method, peppy, as well as instructive, programs were presented.

Neither did the U. P. D.'s, with all their good times forget the service work they are accustomed to do. At Christmas time they sent over one hundred Christmas cards and puzzles to the Soldiers' Hospital at Dayton, Ohio. They also filled their quota for the needlework guild.

The success of the U. P. D. has been due largely to the combined efforts of the peppy set of officers and the energetic and enthusiastic group of advisors, which includes Miss Reynard, Miss Oberlin, Miss Furst, and Miss Lucasse. With their guidance and advice the U. P. D'.s have been able to live up to the three virtues for which their name stands—Usefulness, Patriotism, and Devotion.

U. P. D.

The High School Girls' Reserve Club has a two-fold purpose in Central. It contains the good work already started by the Y. W. C. A. in the grade schools by connecting it with high school work. Besides this it gives a high school girl a chance to express her ideals, work out her schemes, mingle with her newly made friends, and develop her powers of leadership.

Girls' clubs are a necessity in the lives of all girls. U. P. D. fulfills its purpose in trying to live up to its motto.

Each meeting is carried on in a business-like manner. The community spirit is developed through the service committee and the ensemble singing. A certain per cent of the meetings are social. Different committees plan and execute games, plan and prepare refreshments and in every way try to create an atmosphere of hospitality. The devotional part of the club is always emphasized. Very often the discussion meetings are on topics of vital importance. The girls respond most cordially to the inspirational talks furnished by the Y. W. and by outside speakers.

Those at all familiar with the code for this organization must appreciate the influence that its teachings must have on the average freshman and sophomore. It can be truthfully said that the Central girls mean it when they say, "I will try to face life squarely."

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club was organized two years ago by several of the teachers and students of the Economics Department who had for some time past cherished dreams of such a club. A splendid response came to their call for members, and the club at once began its spectacular career. Its advisors are Miss Barnes, Miss Pate, Miss Beyerlein, and Miss Strauss, and it is evident that with such a capable group to offer advice, the club can never err.

Any one who has taken a one year course in Home Economics is eligible for membership. Two meetings are held each month, and interesting and instructive programs are always presented. Last year a series of educational talks on "Health" were given by Miss Gorrell.

The Home Economics Club has also done much service work, both in the school and out. Among other things, the members made lamp shades for the Veterans Hospital in Kentucky. They sewed the C's on the sweaters for the teams, and they presented to the school a table equipped with money drawers, etc., which is to be used for sales in the lower hall. They also sold and made a delicious, new candy of their own invention—chocorice, which immediately won great popularity with the student body.

Stage

One of the greatest activities and most successful is that of the stage. Central has a state-wide reputation for the dramas, operettas, and vod-vils that she presents.

This year this activity burst forth in all its splendour with "Cindy" or "The Vanishing Princess" as the Christmas play given by The Student Players' Club. Janet Egly, Jack Kitch, George Thain, and Bill Rhamy carried their parts in the play exceedingly well. The play was very different and appealed to everyone who saw it. "Pinafore," an operetta by Gilbert and Sullivan, sponsord by the music department, was next on the list. Dorthea Nelson, Wade McCoy, Clausen McKim, Rosalia Pollak, Milton Rosenthal, Esther Davies, Carl Riedel and Herbert Widenhofer, a chorus of eighty and our school orchestra carried the "Pinafore" along on a smooth sea.

The next showings to blossom forth were two plays given by the Student Player's Club under the able direction of Miss Marjorie Suter, Central's famous dramatic director. "The Social Matinee," a very clever play disclosing some habits of women, had a cast of eight or ten very capable actresses. "If Men Played Cards As Women Do," the second of these plays, was well given by Jack Kitch, Clausen McKim, Jack Williams and Paul Aumann.

In February everyone at school was seeing black and white for the time of the "Black and White Vod-vil" was at hand. As the name implies "black" and white alike took part. We challenge the Keith circuit to put forth a better bill than did the Senior class and the Boosters' Club in this performance.

William Shakespeare became our friend for life after we had witnessed the production of "As You Like It" sponsored by the English Department. Jean Basil showed her ability in the part of Rosalind. She was supported by a good cast consisting of Harold Korn, Morgan Lewis, Marjorie Hawkins, William Bittler, Hillis Harris and Ruth Burhop. The play was beautifully staged and the costumes delighted everyone. Miss Suter also directed this play.

The last play of the season given by the Student Players' Club was "The Maker of Dreams" in which Jean Basil was Pierrette, Morgan Lewis, Pierrot, and Bill Rhamy, the Maker of Dreams. The costuming of this play was unusually beautiful. The lighting effects were gotten by Jack Coombs, a student ot the Fort Wayne Art School and an honorary member of the Student Players' Club. The music for this play was furnished by Bill Miller and Tom Snook.

"Mrs. Partridge Presents" was given as the senior class play. Miss Suter directed the production, and Harriet Hiester took the leading role.

DEBATE

Top Row: GLADSTONE; HAGERMANN, manager; WIANT; NOVITSKY; E. TONKEL; BOWEN.
Bottom Row: WARD; CROXALL; CROMER, coach; M. TONKEL; MERILLAT.

Public Speaking

Miss Mary E. Cromer, our very efficient coach in debating, has been in Central for six years, and during this time she has produced a number of winning teams. The class of '27 sincerely appreciates her aid and friendly cooperation.

The Northeastern Indiana Debating League, of which Central, South Side, Leo, and Huntington are members, staged some very exciting debates this season. The subject that was debated was "Resolved, That the United States should cancel all war debts owed her by her allies." Central's defenders were:

Affirmative—Byron Novitsky (captain), Thoburn Wiant, Philip Bowen, Mildred Tonkel (alternate).

Negative—Ernest Tonkel (captain), Thelma Merillat, Naffie Gladstone, Katherine Croxall (alternate).

The meets ended in a tie between Huntington and Central, each school having lost one affirmative debate. This tie was debated off in January in Central's auditorium in the presence of an enthusiastic audience. Although Central's men fought with "might and main" the Huntington team captured the championship title. The debaters in the championship contest were:

Affirmative—Byron Novitsky (captain), Ernest Tonkel, Thoburn Wiant, Philip Bowen (alternate). The negative was upheld by Huntington.

Top Row: Bowen; Wiant.

Public Speaking

One of the unique features in Central debating this year was a girls' team. Goshen girls made bold and challenged the Central co-ed speakers to a contest on April 5 with the subject "Resolved, That a department of education with a secretary in the President's cabinet should be established." Both affirmative teams were victorious in the contest. The girls on the Central teams were:

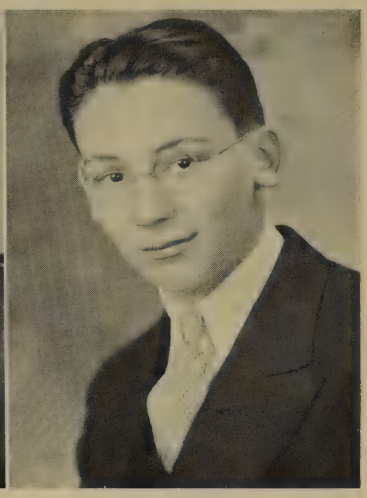
Affirmative—Katherine Croxall (captain), Mary Pratt, Hope Harnish, Ruth Godwin (alternate).

Negative—Thelma Merillat (captain), Mildred Tonkel, Dorothea Ward, Lucile Hoenes (alternate).

Throughout the debating season John Welch and Theodore Hagermann acted as the able managers of the teams. Much credit for the success of the debating this year is due to the efforts of these managers.

The annual Allen County discussion contest took place in Central's auditorium, March 20, with Byron Novitsky representing the Blue and White. The subject for discussion was "Resolved, That a department of education with a secretary in the President's cabinet should be established." Byron Novitsky was victorious, and represented Central in the district Contest where he won second place.

KATHERINE CROXALL
Winner of Extemporaneous Speaking Contest, and Constitutional Contest



BYRON NOVITSKY
District and County Discussion Speaker

Public Speaking

Central has been represented in other contests this year. Two extemporaneous contests, one each semester, were held. The speakers for the first contest were Katherine Croxall, Don Johnson, John Welch, Mary Pratt, Rose Katzenburg, and Ernest Tonkel. The topics for discussion were "European Travel;" "Radio;" and "Murder by Motor." Katherine Croxall, a senior, whose subject was "European Travel," was the winner. Don Johnson and John Welch were winners of the second and third places respectively. The second contest was held April 28, with Ruth Godwin, Thoburn Wiant, John McMeen, and Carl Jacobs contesting. The subjects were "What's the Matter with the Police?"; "Daylight Savings for Fort Wayne;" and "Getting into College." Carl Jacobs, a sophomore, "ran off" with the honors of the contest with Thoburn Wiant coming in a close second. Katherine Croxall and Carl Jacobs both had the honor of having their names engraved on the Benner and Koerber cups.

Another public speaking event of the year was the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution. Ernest Tonkel, Katherine Croxall, Mary Pratt, and Frederick Beck spoke on the various phases of the Constitution. Katherine Croxall was the winner of second place in the county contest which was held April 20th.

MUSIC

Band

When Mr. Roland Schaffer started the organization of our band there were grave doubts as to its outcome, but our fears have been chased away by the wonderful results that have grown out of his work and the work of Mr. Teel. Our band now is an organization of which Central may be proud. Mr. Teel, the director of the band, has worked very hard to improve the playing of these boys. We have all enjoyed listening to the band play at football and basketball games and we also realize how much pep it arouses when it appears at pep meetings.

This musical aggregation played for all the home games and also for the regional tournament. It played for one out-of-town game at Kendallville.

Clausen McKim was assistant director of the band and helped Mr. Teel greatly in making the band have a successful year.

Orchestra

This year, under the direction of Mr. Stanley Teel, Central has had the largest and best orchestra in the history of the school. In five years it has grown from a small nine piece orchestra to a large forty-five piece organization. The orchestra now has an almost full instrumentation and is one of the greatest assets in the music department.

The outstanding appearance of the orchestra was at the state contest at Elkhart, in May, where Central tied for third place. This was the first time Central's musicians had entered any state competition. In December the orchestra assisted in the production of "Pinafore," a comic opera presented by the music department. Other appearances of the organization were at teachers' meetings, at many schools in the city, and at the program given during National Music Week. In the repertoire of the orchestra are the numbers: Finlandia, a tone poem; The Rakoczy March; and Ballet Egyptian.

The members of the orchestra are: John Bastian, Lucille Beber, Marcelene Beber, Oliver Boldt, Walter Bruechner, Edith Brittenham, Gerald Doty, Donald Elder, Glenn Elder, Leon Etzler, Lois Evans, Jean Forsythe, Lucille Garman, Henry Gallmer, LaVern Hibler, Leonard Hizer, Paul Holderman, Russell Jacobs, Jane Johnston, Maurice Lahmeyer, Clausen McKim, Helen Mardey, Paul Mensing, William Miller, Conrad Monroe, Alfred Mundt, Ethel Myers, Norman Sams, Paul Smith, Vinson Snowberger, Raymond Soughan, Daisy Spice, Pearl Standley, George Thain, Carl Voegtlin, Harold Walker, Donald Wilson, Wilda Woehr, Marcile Worgman, Thomas Zimmerman.

Girls' Quartette

The Girls' Quartette, under the direction of Mr. Mathews, has always been one of the most prominent and popular organizations in Central's music department. This year's quartette has succeeded in bringing more fame to Central and her music department through the many appearances it has made. The quartette has been in constant demand this year, which shows its popularity and the way its programs are appreciated.

The girls appeared on a program which was given by Central's music department for the International Business College. The girls also sang on the Armistice Day program, at numerous assemblies, at a concert at the James Smart School, and at the Spring Concert program.

Top Row: McCoy; Rosenthal; Smith; Mr. Mathews; Haberkorn; D. Elder; G. McComb.
Second Row: Kissinger; Flory; Reim; Widenhofer; Youse; Denney; Johnson.
Third Row: Stein; G. elder; J. McComb; Wilson; Gerlock; Imbody.
Bottom Row: Artia; Coar; McKim; Warner; Korte; Homsher.

Boys' Glee Club

The Boys' Glee Club, consisting of about twenty-five members, is the largest and best Central has ever had. At the beginning of the second semester, the members of the organization selected for its officers: President, Carl Wilkins; Vice-President, Clausin McKim; Accompanist, Elmer Doege.

Under the direction of Mr. Paul Mathews, the boys took more interest in singing this year, as was shown by their excellent work in "Pinafore". The Boys' Glee Club appeared in the mixed chorus, at the spring concert during National Music week, and at several assembly programs.

Favorite numbers included in the repertoire of this organization were: "Soldiers Chorus" from Faust; "O Sole Mio"; and "Winter Song" by Bullard.

Top Row: Erwin; Long; J. Hayden; Allison; Alderdice.
Second Row: Mr. Mathews; Hoover; Kelley; Bergman; Cook; Warning; Fulkerson.
Third Row: Zeller; Somers; Bety; Sissner; Steiner; Godwin; Ford.
Bottom Row: McClellan; Johnson; Strong; Tagemeyer; Dreyer; Juergens; Hutchinson.

Girls' Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club, which has always been one of the most popular musical organizations of the school, has had a most successful year under the direction of Mr. Paul Mathews. This year's organization, which is composed of one hundred and fifteen members, is divided into three groups. Rehearsals are held twice a week on school time.

By its several public appearances, the Girls' Glee Club has not only brought honor to Central, but has also popularized the music department.

Top Row: Pfiefer; Ward; Young; Woods; Zingrebe; Crasper.
Second Row: Meyer; Rieber; Stolper; Worgman; Stegner; Masterson; Warner.

Girls' Glee Club

Perhaps the most outstanding work of this music organization was its part in the comic opera Pinafore, which was given by the entire music department of Central High School. Other appearances of the Glee Club were at the Optimists Club, at the Parent-Teachers' meetings, at the spring music concert during National Music Week, and at various school affairs.

Favorite numbers of the organization were: "Morning," by Speaks; "Wake Thee Now, Dearest," a Czech folk song; "Amaryllis," by Ghys; "Cradle Song," by Arensky; and "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes."

Top Row: William Miller; Eugene Burg.

String Quartette

This is the first time in the history of Central that the school has had an organization of this kind. We have never been lucky to find four such good musicians who were able to play together for the enjoyment of the students and faculty.

The quartette won itself a name and a good reputation soon after its organization by presenting a program at the International Business College. They played for the Armistice program, given by the Sorosis Literary Society, the teachers' Christmas party, and a program at the Adams School.

The outstanding numbers in the repertoire of the quartette were Andante Cantabile, Largo from the New World Symphony by Handel, and the Famous Waltz by Brahms.

PUBLICATIONS

JOHN WHITE, Editor

The Spotlight

The Spotlight began its fall career under the tutelage of John White, one of Central's most eminent journalists. A Senior edition and a ten-page Christmas issue were among the most outstanding of the journalistic productions of the year. A variety of front page make-ups, clever cuts, scintillating features and interesting news added to the originality and attractiveness of the first semester papers.

The following staff members, assisted by forty-two hard working reporters, produced a paper worthy of the name of Central High School: Editor-in-chief, John White; managing editor, Freda Withers; news editor, Thoburn Wiant; assistant news editor, Virginia Trier; copy editors, Dorothy Michaels, Katherine Croxall; sports writers, Paul Aumann, Ignota Winter; society editor, Charlotte Stier; feature writer, Milton Rosenthal; advertising manager, Edith Dean; assistant advertising manager, Mary E. Kaufmann; circulation manager, Margaret Stocks; business manager, Rose Katzenburg.

The Spotlight

The Spotlight threw out its rays in the spring term under its new editor, Freda Withers. Features sparkling with animation and dripping with high school wit, accounts of the prowess of Central Tigers in basketball and spring sports—a true cross section of Central High School life—was produced by the second semester staff. The largest edition of the year—a 16 page tournament edition—and a six-page Junior edition of unique character were the result of a hard working and virile staff.

The following members composed the 1927 staff: Editor-in-chief, Freda Withers; managing editor, Thoburn Wiant; news editor, Virginia Trier; assistant news editor, Katherine Croxall; copy editors, Grace Croxall, Thelma Scoles, William Bittler, Mary Pratt, Marjorie Hawkins and Lorena Fann; sports writers, Paul Aumann, Edward Hartman and Florence Koegel; society editor, Frances Cook; feature writers, Milton Rosenthal, Martha Harris, and Charlotte Stier; advertising manager, Mary Elouise Kaufman; assistant advertising manager, Bennie Yablonky; circulation managers, Dorothy Michaels and Arthur Gouty; business manager, Margaret Stocks.

Spotlight Reporters

The Spotlight, Central's weekly newspaper, is put out by the students who have shown ability and interest along journalistic lines. This year there came to Central a new advisor, Miss Leah Austin, whose guidance has been the chief influence in raising the qualities and usefulness of the paper. The staff under her supervision has worked diligently to make the Spotlight everything that is expected of it and through their efforts a truly better paper has been created. The Spotlight tries to present to the students and faculty in clear, concise form the news of events in which any Centralite might be interested and to establish an outlet for those of the student body whose talents tend toward writing.

The Caldron

It is hoped that this year's Caldron edited by the class of 1927 has succeeded in some degree in achieving the high aims set forth by its staff. We have conscientiously tried to give to the school what we felt it wanted in the school annual and each staff member has done his share in fulfilling this desire.

The staff, headed by Rosalia Pollak as editor, has endeavored to embody in this book all the activities of our school during the past year in an interesting and clever way. We have not only tried to come up to the standard of all the preceding annuals, but we have tried to make our annual the best ever. This we tried to do, not only in improving the contents of the book, but in making the circulation wider than ever before.

We will leave the decision as to whether or not we have succeeded to you, the readers for whose benefit this book has been published. We hope that you will enjoy your book and that in years to come, you will be able, with the help of this book, to recall memories of your former high school days.

1927 Caldron

This year's book was made possible largely through the untiring efforts of Miss Hurst and by her willingness at any time to help and guide any member of the staff.

Miss Hurst has been an ambitious staff member in trying to make the Caldron a success, and we are all grateful for her help and guidance.

Next year Miss Hurst will go to North Side to teach and to direct the activities of their school annual. With her departure Central will lose one of her most valuable faculty members. But Central's loss will be North Side's gain, and although we hate to lose her, we wish her all manner of success in her work in our sister school.

The 1926 Caldron was awarded first prize in the I. H. S. P. A. contest. Since the convention held at Franklin in October, the silver loving cup has been in Central's trophy case. Leonard Scheele was editor-in-chief of the publication and Mr. Richardson was faculty advisor.

Fragmenta Latina

Fragmenta Latina is the publication of the Latin department of Central. It was launched in 1919 under the guidance of Stewart Hulse and William Merrill. For that one year the Junior High Latin Departments of Jefferson and Harmar schools joined with Central. The editors for the paper since then have been as follows: 1920-1921, Joseph Folsom and Mabel Gresley; 1921-1922, Ned Arick; 1922-1923, Howard Tenny and John Shoaf; 1923-1924, Poynter McEvoy and David Bernstein; 1924-1925, James Anglin and Vere Kint; and 1925-1926, Virgil Norford and Richard Heine. The history of the paper shows big advancement. It has been enlarged from a two-column edition to one double that size with a change in price from one cent a copy to five cents.

In 1924 an addition was made to the staff. One reporter from each Latin class was elected as its representative, for the paper. This plan is still being used. Much credit is due Miss Beyerlein, who has faithfully and ably filled the position of advisor for the paper.

The first edition of the year 1926-1927 was unique in the fact that the first page represented a paper of Cicero's time. Glaring headlines at the top of the page stated "Cicero has returned from Exile." This idea was kept throughout the page.

The purpose of Fragmenta Latina is to stimulate interest among the students of the department in the study of Latin.

Keyboard

The Keyboard is a publication of the Commercial department. All of the work is done by students and equipment of the department.

The staff was elected by a number of commercial students assembled for that purpose. They bring in the material which is then corrected, typed, stenciled, mimeographed, and the paper is "made up." The publication consists of commercial news and notes, society, jokes, editorials, literary page, and cartoons.

The Keyboard is for the purpose of helping the school learn more of the Commercial department. The first issue of this year was a big success and always can be with the support of the student body. The paper is under the supervision of Mr. E. Eyster.

MADELINE CROMWELL

Indiana High School Press Association President

Last October, a large delegation went to Franklin, Indiana, to attend the Indiana High School Press Association Convention. Never before had Central been so well represented at any convention.

We had never had a student at Central hold an office in the Association, so we all decided that it was about time to spread our wings and soar into the heights. Our selected candidate was Madeline Cromwell, a junior, whom we put up for president of the Association. Then the strenuous campaigning started. At the election we all had the thrill of our lives when we heard the words "Fort Wayne" being repeated over and over again as the ballots were cast. Madeline was elected president by a large majority. Central had won a much coveted honor. She was the possessor of the presidency of the Indiana High School Press Association. Madeline is the first girl to hold presidency of the Association.

On March 26, Madeline went to Indianapolis to preside at a meeting of the organization.

We hope that next term Central will have a larger delegation than ever and that she will again win honors that will be a credit to her name.

The Origin of 228

Way back in the dark ages, even before the time of Mrs. Clark, about the time when Adam was beginning kindergarten and was throwing paperwads at Eve, there lived a certain tribe of beings who were called Manaboofklwighe (pronounced like our modern word Knaeiouylinskyz, only with the q made long as in China). Now this particular tribe were regular old-fashioned, women-hating, gedunk-drinking, school-hating, he-men, who would have satisfied Harold Teen and his B. Y. Club's wildest desires. Each had the weight of "Bob" Ramsey, the height of "Mutt" Jasper, the brains of Dick Heine and Martha Harris, and the actions of Freddie Stephan and Park Drayer, and all the rest of Central's "funny" boys combined. Verily, each even had some of Miss McCloud's temper, though not as much as she for even in that day, month, year, and age some things were impossible.

You ask me why you had never heard of these remarkable people before. Well, you see it was like this. I just discovered them and am now writing their history; that is, the history of their intellect. For an account of their athletics and sports see "Sports of the Manaboofklwighi as Compared with Those of the Greeks" by Wiant and Aumann, verified by Miss Smeltzly, proof-read by Austin and Hurst. For the pronunciation of names given see "Talker's Inter-township Dictionary" in 1000 volumes, weight 20,000 pounds. This is the famous pocket-edition which can easily be carried with you in a ten ton truck. Better yet, make up your own pronunciations.

These prohysteric people were especially noted for their fine schools. Did I say they hated schools? So they did, so they did, but someone is always taking the joy out of life. Their schools were magnificient, being portable so that as the scholars advanced in grade, they could be moved to a little higher ground. Their teachers were the best in the world at that time. Please notice the list of celebrities they had on their string: Old Man Square-the-Circle, who taught Euclid's Geometry (he's the guy who invented the "Square meal"); More-sure and Day-long, the History teachers; Suit-her, the Director of Dramatics, not so good as our Miss Suter; Mat-hews and Tale, the Music teachers, (Irving Berlin studied their style) and others too numerous to mention. But the principal, the head-teacher, the leader, and the tyrant of the school was Tu-Twenty-Ate. He was a holy terror.

Tu-Twenty-Ate's method of procedure was simple, but effective. He was always right, at all times and on all occasions. For a mild offence like being late to school, the culprit was promptly shut up in a cave and required to read Cicero's Orations, being fed during the period of confinement on a light diet of frankfurters, sauerkraut and Limburger cheese. If someone forgot to sign up in the library, or if he signed the wrong seat number, that person was bawled out unceasingly and without stopping for a long time. For the worst offense, when some poor, benighted Manboofklwighe became too vociferous and disagreed with Tu-Twenty-Ate, he was immediately given a few light love-taps with a stone hammer on the top of his more or less ivory cranium, and was thereby dispatched into the realms of Heslippedemuphere, where the ignorant may rest their overworked brains and the Charleston dancers their overworked legs.

Tu-Twenty-Ate was very able assisted by Honk-e-Tonk. He was the chief bouncer and did all the cheesing, he even made the Limburger. Honk-e-Tonk was commonly called "Honk" and was viewed with fear and trembling. When people saw him coming, they promptly cried out, "Honk! Honk!" Then all scattered to safety among the trees and their cousins, the Monkeys. It is from this that the auto manufacturers conceived the idea of making the horn sound "honk-honk." People hear it and promptly get out of the way.

And so Tu-Twenty-Ate became a demi-god, but an evil one. Parents, instead of telling their children that the "Bugaboo" would get them, said they would send them to Tu-Twenty-Ate. Teachers threatened to send pupils to Tu-Twenty-Ate if they did not get their lessons. It started then and is continuing now. When Tu-Twenty-Ate died, some people had a bright idea and had a room called Tu-Twenty-Ate, where students were to be sent to be chastised. Even now many pupils can remember when they were sent to our 228. Egad! Even to say 228 to any student makes him blanch. Everyone speaks of it in hushed tones. Everyone is afraid of it. Everyone hates it, but still we get sent to 228.

Ivanhoe as Advertised

Part 1. The Forest

1. Brian de Bois Guilbert inquired the way to Cedric's manor and Wamba replied, "Your nose knows."

2. Gurth warned the Templar not to attempt to pass through the forest at that particular place on account of the thickets, but the latter exclaimed, "I am not worried, I use Kelly Springfields!"

3. While passing through the heretoforesaid thicket Brian snagged his hose, as he failed to wear Hole-Proof Hosiery today, although "you just know he wears them" usually.

4. The knight was caught in the thickets, but finally managed to get out and he accomplished by himself what it would take another to do with Borax's twenty mule team.

Part 2. Cedric's manor

1. The floors were cold and bare because they lacked Congoleum rugs.

2. Rowena entered the hall powdering the "skin you love to touch" because she believed in the old saying "save the surface and you save all."

3. Oleomargerine was not used at the feast, even though four out of five had it and the fifth one sold it, because Cedric believed in the saying "accept no substitutes."

4. They used Wrigley's after every meal and they smoked Fatimas because a few cents makes a whale of a difference and besides they were too tired to "walk a mile for a Camel."

5. Cedric read the "Last Love" because it was 99.44% pure (rot).

6. After the feast the servants brought in Fisks because it was "time to retire."

Part 3. The Tournament

1. The grandstands were filled with "fifty-seven varieties" of ladies who possessed "that school-girl complexion."

2. The combatants were drawn up in the "danger line." Among them was Willys Knight in armor, "body by Fisher," (no metal can touch you).

3. Pierce Arrows were used exclusively in the archery contest because "there is something about them you like."

4. Much enthusiasm was aroused and someone from the lists shouted, "Kodak as they go." Some of the knights fought as if they needed Fleischman's Yeast to wake them up.

Part 4. The House Party

1. Mazda lamps "light the world," but Rowena basked in love light as she sat down at the Steinway, "the instrument of the immortals."

2. Ivanhoe lit a stogy and Rowena cooed, "Blow some my way."

3. Adoringly Ivanhoe gazed into the lady's eyes and said, "Eventually, why not now, unless, there is a reason."

4. Rowena gave a sigh of joy for she had been "often a bride's maid, but never a bride."
Moral: All's well that ends well. (draw your own conclusion).

SEPTEMBER

Well, it's September and school's began. I and Gloria walked to school this morning, and Gloria said she imagined things would be pretty dull this year with all the other fellows and heroes gone, and I just told Gloria that she wasn't showing the right attitude to lots of these younger fellows like Ted Hagerman and Gerald Doty and Herbert Widenhofer and Carl Altschult and Arthur Gouty and I just said that she should have faith in these boys, and that maybe they'd go out and conquer things and be heroes like Wayne Kepler and Virgil Norford and Preston Slack and Jack White and some of our other war-like gods. And I just told Gloria that maybe these boys didn't know that they should pay the bill when they take a girl thirst-quenching at Ewings, but I just said they'd learn, and some day I told Gloria that these very boys would know that a soda satisfies a hungry girl more than a coke.

OCTOBER

Well Gloria and I are awful football fans so we went out to the Bluffton game and have been going all the time since. Well while we were out to the game why who should come up but Park Drayer and Bob Gardner and asked us if we would eat an ice cream pie with them, and Gloria just acted awful and wouldn't pay any attenshun to them whatever, and just then Steve Marshall gained about 12 yards out on the field where the team was playing football, and Gloria just went sorta frantick and she just squeezed my hand and said "Oh my dear this just thrills me to death"—and right in front of Bob and Park she said—"does his uncle (meaning Steve's) give him lots of nickels for cokes"—Well I tried to quiet her, and after she wasn't so panicky I just told Gloria that she'd better have taken that ice cream pie because Park and Bob both drove cars all their own sometimes and it would have meant a lot to let people see us eating with them.

NOVEMBER

Well, I and Gloria are just getting down to work. I just told Gloria there was so much glamor around girls like us at the entrants of school that no one in our position could be expected to spend much time with the edgeucational program. Well Xmas will soon be here and I just told Gloria we 'd better begin to attach ourselves to boys like George Southworth and Dick Laue because they always bought girls such lovely presence, and I just told Gloria that girls like us would have to look out for ourselves. Well Gloria and I went down to Koerbers and picked out some gorgeous compacts and emerald bracelets and things, and Gloria said maybe they 'd better just lay them back, and I just told Gloria that no man could be expected to buy those things 'til he 'd had some training, so I and Gloria went out to find Dick and George.

You have heard of these men—most of them—for they are among the greatest musical stars in America: Paul Whiteman, Tom Brown, Joseph C. Smith, Vincent Lopez, Clyde C. Doerr, Bennie Krueger, Ben Selvin, Dan Russo, Paul Specht, Meyer Davis, Art Hickman, Carl Fenton and Gene Rodemich—they all use and recommend Buescher Instruments.

Join the 75%

Whether you are a Professional or an Amateur—whether you expect to join the ranks of the Nation's Record-Makers or simply to play for your own amusement and the entertainment of your family and friends—you deserve to play a Buescher.

Easy to Play

The Buescher Saxophone is so perfected and simplified that it is the easiest of all musical instruments to learn.

It is the one instrument that everyone can play—and it wholly satisfies that craving everybody has to personally produce music.

You learn the scale in an hour's practice, play popular music in a few weeks, and take your place in orchestra or band within 90 days, if you so desire. Saxophone players are always in demand for dance orchestras.

Free Saxophone Book

The Buescher Saxophone Book tells which Saxophone takes violin, cello and bass parts, and many other things you would like to know. Ask for a free copy.

DECEMBER

Well, after Gloria's official bow to society which was made at the Thanksgiving dance at Lincolndale, why Gloria just raved all the time about a fellow called Carl Wilkins who she met with at the dance and she didn't seem to bother about getting back to work on her historie. Gloria and this Carl Wilkins had become practically inseperable and every day you could see them at Ewing's, in fact their case was simply vialent. Why, Carl got so that he was in a terrible panick whenever Gloria would look at another man, and I and Gloria went to the operetta "The Pinafore," and Gloria squeezed my hand and said isn't Stanley Teel just too marvelous when he directs that orchestra, and right back of her was Carl Wilkins. As soon as the performance was over, why Carl came up to Gloria's surprize and with the awefullest face and harshest tone, said to Gloria, "Come here, you scion." Well Gloria had been called a lot of harsh names by gentlemen but never anything so serious as that and it left a nasty gash in Gloria's heart.

JANUARY

Well, I and Gloria are now both out in society, and since the New Year's dance I'm on the Social Register, and I just told Gloria that it was such a releaf to know that you was accepted and it really meant presteege to be in the register. But I just told Gloria that she'd have to be pretty careful about who she ran around with because Carl Wilkins had been acting terrible frantick, and I had heard rumers that Carl had some decketives working to see what she was doing. The way I heard it rumered was that Anne Hayden and Paul Mensing kept running around with a note book taking notes, and then they'd run to Carl and tell him something and then they'd say, "Ask me another."

And Tom Popp said that the things Carl was saying about Gloria was simply terrible. And George Bond said he didn't know what they all meant since Carl had taken a colledge english course that came to his ade when he expressed himself.

Train for Business

Graduate, in planning your future educational program, consider well business.

It is important, too, that you exercise discretion in selecting the school in which to get your business training.

A dominant leader in the field of commercial education for more than a third of a century, The INTERNATIONAL takes justifiable pride in offering, as the crowning achievement of these years of notable progress, its Executive Secretarial Course. As its name implies, this course is intended for the alert, aggressive, determined young man or woman who is ultimately destined for an executive position.

Other high-grade courses are offered exclusively to High School graduates who desire a less extensive training. Whatever position in business you covet, you can arrive quickest VIA The INTERNATIONAL Training Route. And, your training completed, you will find that INTERNATIONAL GRADUATES ARE PREFERRED.

FEBRUARY

Well, I and Gloria went down to Baber's to get some Valentines. The way we happened to go there was because Johnny Habacker works there, and Gloria thought maybe John could help her pick out a real sentimentle greeting for Carl Wilkins, but when we got there why there was such a crowd of girls around John and Gloria and I just thought it was not showing the right attitude to shove in ahead of Mary Pratt, Venus Faux and Margaret Phipps who were just acting too silly for words—when they were picking out Valentines for Milton Rosenthal and Gene Berg and Clayton Merillat. Well we left and I just had a terrible time getting down the street with Gloria for she's awful popular with policemen and truck drivers even when they're on duty, but I just told Gloria we'd have to put business before pleasure and hunt a Valentine for Carl, because he'd been acting more pequalar than ever—and had even threatened to go to Shang High or some other terruble place if Gloria didn't reform.

MARCH

Well, I and Gloria got tickets for the tournament so we could go together, as we knew that a young girl who went to a tournament by herself in Fort Wayne was likely to get herself talked about. Well we went and everybody was there, and I and Gloria sat down with the rest of the girls so we wouldn't get ourselves talked about. But when the team came out on the floor Gloria got all excited and stood up and yelled and acted just dreadful, and just raved about Mutt and Bob being so godlike and strong and about Weber and Dornte and all the rest of the fellows being so heroic. Well, right in front of her was Carl Wilkins yelling and jumping around terrible and I just told Gloria that in trying to be indifferent to her, Carl had had his mind taken off more than it should be. Well I tried to set a good example by absolutely refusing to yell, especially when I was near Mrs. Clark for I did want it to be obvious to her that I was one of the girls on Social Restraint. But the yelling finally got so bad where I was that I had to go over and sit by Mrs. Clark to add dignity.

What Electricity Has Done for Mothers

THIRTY YEARS AGO, homes were lighted or, rather, only half-lighted by oil lamps, lamps that required daily cleaning and attention. Just one of the many trying daily tasks that our mothers performed so uncomplainingly.

Then came the electric light, the first of a series of wonderful developments in the electrical industry. Now, Mother presses a button and the whole room is flooded with light---light that comes at the speed of the sun's light, 11,160,000 miles per minute.

After the electric light, in quick succession, came the electric iron, the electric washer, the electric cleaner, and other household appliances---appliances that banished drudgery, the monotonous drudgery of house work.

Today, electricity works for Mother, enabling her to really enjoy living---to do things worth while---to devote more time to her children; it gives her "more leisure, wisely used."

Is the Food You Eat Important?

The thought that we do not live to eat, but eat to live, when correctly understood, actually stresses the importance of the things we eat although the superficial mind often takes just the opposite interpretation.
The Kind of Food we eat IS important, for our health, happiness, and after all, life itself depends upon it. This seems so entirely obvious—and yet—since the majority of us are not dieticians, we eat carelessly and without thought of the true value of the food we take.
You cannot examine and analize your food every day, but you CAN insist on food whose makers do it for you. The Perfection Biscuit Company does exactly that—maintains a complete laboratory and a staff of experts—thoroughly testing every ingredient that goes into the wide variety of tempting breads, crackers, cakes and cookies that carry its name "PERFECTION."

Demand PERFECTION whenever you want baked foods, and you'll know that you are getting the best and biggest money's worth in healthful, appetizing, truly nourishing food.

APRIL

Well the tournament is over and I and Gloria have been wondering what to give up for lent. Well, we were coming back to school down at the crossroads of Clinton and Lewis streets, when we saw Mr. Hewitt coming back from lunch too, and we just told him about our trouble. I had just always told Gloria he was so sympathetic and kind and was so beau gallant as the French or other people in the Social Register say, and he's so broadminded and he suggested that we give up watermelon or grand opera and baseball, and then we could feel that we were really sacrificing.

Well by that time we were up to the walk by Central and we heard sounds and echos from the little cafes along Calhoun street we looked around, and who was there but Carl Wilkins, with an aweful scowl on his face and in the meanest voice he looked at Gloria and said that he wished he could tell the bare-faced facts about beauties. Gloria was so humiliated, but Mr. Hewitt was so gallant and brave and he spoke up and said Never mind Doc, I drink 2 cups of coffee every night and sleep like a log.

MAY

Well school's almost over and the Junior Prom and Senior Play are here; and Gloria and I were walking down town and Gloria said she didn't know that she'd have a date for the dance, because most men were peculiar and anyway to have a date with a man at the prom was more or less of a handicap and I just told Gloria that I didn't have a date either for the dance but anyway we didn't need to worry because there'd be some stags like Wade McCoy, Byron Novitsky and it wouldn't cause a girl of our social prestige to get talked about if she went without a date even though Rosalia Pollak, Harriett Hiester and Martha Harris and some of those other girls would call it a vulgar display of one's popularity to expect a full program from stags. But Miss McCloud said we could get buy, when Carl Wilkins came up in a sort of a daze, almost a stupor, and asked would she or would she not go to the Junior Prom with him and Gloria just sorta sideswiped him and said "I'll make a puzzle with you—will I go?" And Carl said "You answer this one—Ask me another."

JUNE

Well the Junior Prom is over and everything around school seems grand because Carl Wilkens and Gloria are almost inseperable again. And I and Gloria are just never together again. And what does it matter anyway—a girl in the social register doesn't have to run after any other girl or Carl Wilkens to remain in the social register, and anyway I'm going out with a lot of the other prominent people in school, for instance the other night I and Germaine Comparet and Mary Liggett and Bill Miller and Dick Heine went out to a hot dog stand and had a cup of coffee, but we didn't eat because Dick kept saying we wouldn't have time as he had to get the car back home early, and I just said how much better it was to be out with boys like that who didn't feel that they had to spend a quarter on a girl when they should have the car home. Well our caps and gowns came and I just said it sorta made me have larngitis to think about leaving school but we could be noble and fine and always love Central anyway.

"BUILD WITH MOELLERING BRICK"

A Face Brick Home costs but very little more than frame construction. BUT, this additional 7% is soon overcome through less depreciation, lower fuel bills, less painting and up-keep. Ask us for your copy of the "Story of Brick." It's free. Just phone Harrison 4121, or visit our display rooms on Murray Street.

GERALD DOTY

Gerald Doty, pupil of Emile Bouillet, easily qualified as one of the first violinists in the National High School Orchestra.

In competition he won the outside position on the fourth desk in a violin section of one hundred players.

This orchestra of two hundred and sixty-six members played a series of concerts in Dallas, Texas, during the week between Feb. 26 and March 3, 1927. Mr. Doty's connection with the orchestra enabled the Bouillet Violin School, Central High School and Fort Wayne to be represented in this most worthy national event.

Becktold Covers!

THE beautiful cover on this annual is a Becktold. Because it is a Becktold it will prove durable and lasting . . a compliment to the wisdom and farsightedness of the staff in charge.

Becktold never fails to lend an atmosphere of true quality. The handsome grain, originality of design, deep embossing and artistic blending of colors have made this cover preferred. On these qualities the Becktold has built its reputation for complete satisfaction.

If you want a friend who believes in Service, who is willing to burn the mid-night oil for you, and who is glad to answer any S.O.S. - then call on the Bond Engravers - Theyre genuine and were Strong for them -

- the Caldron Staff.

Rosalia Pollak, editor-in-chief and announcer, wants to express, for the entire staff, an appreciation to:

Miss Sinclair, head of the Art department at Central, who has supervised and directed all the art work in this annual.

Mr. Wade of the Bond Engravers, and Mr. Schabacker, of the Fort Wayne Printing Company, who have been willing to aid us at any time.

Station C-A-L-D-R-O-N, signing off.

It is now 12 P. M. May 20, 1927.

Good Night and Good Luck.
